She was like my grandmother to me. Long ago we went shopping with my Godmother and her. I felt like being with my Grandmother again. I had missed how that felt for a long time. I had known her about 5 years. Some of her things that she had given them to me still at my house. Even though I did not know her earlier when she was a nurse. I am sure that she had done great job for her career. Now as she is joining my Godpa and my husband and my dad there. I am going to miss her very much each time I look at things fill with the memories. My Godmother is like her daughter taken care of her. Last time we saw her together. She is like a child but happy. I think that is she always wants to feel is to be free. Now she is free and wish her the best journey up there. Life is a journey and for hers by accepting I know she is happy at the end. Beside her son I never got to meet any of her family members. Sorry for your loss. I hope share my memories with hers. You get to know other side of her you may have missed. I will always miss you.

I was sad to hear of Dianne's passing. What a beautiful lady, inside and out. She welcomed me to First Baptist of Concord. I am better for having known her. I am encouraged to know that because she put her faith and trust in Jesus Christ as Saviour, we will see each other again in heaven one day. I will miss you Dianne but I know you are happy where you are. See you soon!

A quick post to say how much I will miss my Aunt Diane and her phone calls. She was so sweet. I loved how she would be the one to tell me stories of my mom, who was her younger sister. These are some photos of a visit I had with her in 2008 with my now grown children. No photo collage of Aunt Diane would be complete without one of her with a camera. She was rounding up my brood for a picture on the stairs.

Dianne was such a loving person. So loyal. My family and hers were together so much from when she was born until her family moved to Florida. When she came back to the area she visited my mother often. When i came back she would visit. She was such a great friend. We were cousins but felt closer. Wish I had told her how much she meant to me. May God's peace surround her family.
