Nancy and Chad, David and I were riding down the road earlier, after reading the obituary, and reminiscing our memories of Ned. Of course I've known him most of my life, but David was remembering when he worked for Miller and would bring us kegs of beer home !! He will never be replaced but I hope you both find strength in your memories with him. Thoughts and prayers to y'all and the family.

Ned and I were very close growing up. He was like a brother to me. We visited, went fishing together, played and at times even worked together. He was my cousin, classmate and buddy. He was humorous, kind and generous. When we graduated from high school, life took us on different paths. I would see him at class reunions, family gatherings and funerals and we got to talk. When I found out Ned's diagnosis, I called him. He recognized my voice and I did not need to tell him who I was. We had a good, long conversation and I am thankful for that. Life is busy, hectic and complicated. I just never realized how much I cared about "that old boy" until he was gone. My sympathies to Ned's family and friends. Ronald F. Austin
